

Why Canadian Lamb?

While Canadian lamb is more expensive to raise than lambs raised in countries such as New Zealand and Australia, RIZ Global is committed to supporting Canadian farm families and their local communities.

In Canada our lamb are cared for in barns during the winter and protected against predators such as coyotes and bears in the spring summer and fall.

The lamb in Canada graze on sweet Canadian grass and Canadian grain which eliminates the wild gamey taste often associated with imported lamb products.

Canadian lamb products have a lower carbon footprint than imported lamb that must travel halfway round the world to reach the Canadian market. RIZ Global is committed to buying local, safe, sustainable products and supporting Canadian owned food plants..

What is Wagyu?

Wagyu is a specialty breed of beef cow that has its origins in the Kobe region of Japan. Wagyu beef is noted for its tender, succulent taste due to its marbling. Scientific studies have shown that the marbling in Wagyu beef creates a very healthy choice for consumers.

Wagyu beef is an effective source of essential fatty acids such as Omega 3 as well as containing 30% more Omega 6 than other beef breeds.

Canadian wagyu beef are very slowly raised on grass and long fed on nutritious grains with no added hormones or antibiotics to assist growth and no animal by products. The result is a very tender and palette pleasing flavour.

By supporting Canadian farmers, Canadian food plants and a Canadian value chain, RIZ Global helps ensure food security for all Canadians.

Where Can You find RIZ Products?

The LÄM and WÄGYU brands of burgers, kabobs, cooked meatballs and sausages can be found in grocery stores near you. The products are normally displayed in the frozen food and meat sections of most stores.
